About the Department of Japanese and Asian Studies

In April 2015, the Graduate School of Humanities and Social Sciences at Saitama University (SU) launched a new graduate-level Department of Japanese and Asian Studies (Department). Contemporary society is clearly witnessing a transformation toward a knowledge-based society wherein new knowledge, information, and technology provide a vital foundation for human action in various political, economic, and social arenas. At the same time, advancing globalization is stimulating a remarkable upsurge in the international mobility of people, goods, and capital, thereby further promoting the interdependence of nations. Asia is one of the most culturally and economically dynamic regions of this increasingly interdependent global society, a fact that underscores the importance of research and education that deepens our understanding of this part of the world. In accordance with these trends, the Graduate School of Humanities and Social Sciences aims to cultivate graduates who are well suited to serve as intellectual leaders in this knowledge-based global society; moreover, it is making the study of Asia a central component of this initiative.

Master's Programs Overview

In response to the requirements of this knowledge-based globalizing society, the university provides new learning opportunities for a broad mix of Japanese students, international students, and working adults. One such innovation addresses the needs of graduate students who wish to study the economy and culture of Japan and Asia in English by offering two programs wherein one can earn a master's degree entirely in English: the Master of Economics (MEcon) Program in Japanese and Asian Economy and Management and the Master of Arts (MA) Program in Japanese and Asian Culture. All classwork and thesis supervision in these two programs are usually conducted in English. Students wishing to begin or continue Japanese language studies after their entrance into the university are encouraged to do so (we offer both beginning and advanced Japanese language instruction), but language study is not compulsory.

The two programs offer students the options to pursue a degree with a disciplinary focus either in economics and business or in the liberal arts. This provides them with a broad, in-depth study of Japanese and Asian economies, management, history, and culture from a global or multicultural perspective. Students will enroll in either the MEcon or the MA program, but they can choose classes from either program in order to obtain an interdisciplinary perspective covering both the social sciences and humanities. Graduates of either the liberal arts, economics, or business options will be well prepared to fill professional positions in international organizations or in industries, governments, non-profit organizations, or management sectors in either Japan or their home country.

Note that this application guideline is for the MEcon program. The MEcon program, comprising classes on the Japanese and Asian economy, society, and management, rests on the accumulated store of years of fieldwork by numerous faculty who excelled in systems design and policy recommendation, and were committed to creating new socioeconomic models for a sustainable Asia. Students enrolled in this program will master theories and methods useful for solving economic problems and graduate with the ability to greatly contribute to the further development of their home societies and of Asia in general.

The MA program in Japanese and Asian Culture offers students an interdisciplinary selection of classes and thesis supervision covering Japanese and Asian history, literature, material culture, media, contemporary art, traditional performing arts, and other cultural studies topics. Under the direction of leading scholars, the program provides successful applicants with an ideal forum through which to hone their analytical skills and enhance their ability to comprehend the multiple cultural and historical perspectives characterizing today's global society, and thus will leave graduates well prepared to pursue their professional goals in Japan or abroad.

We welcome motivated students from all over the world and look forward to your application.

2. The research plan or statement of purpose must include the title of your research, what you have studied so far, what you wish to study in the program, and your future career goals (approx. 1,000 words). Students applying to the MEcon program must include a specific topic and a tangible research plan for completion of the master's thesis. Therefore, your research plan should be narrowly scoped, convincing us that this can be completed within two years. It is desirable that your research is based on the subject you are already familiar with, through undergraduate study, personal experience, previous careers, etc., but within the course plan to further undertake focused and intensive research. When completing the research plan, please avoid relying solely on your expected future efforts during the course, but be sure to describe and make full use of what you have already achieved.

2. Writing sample

Please submit a sample of your written work, which can be a copy of your undergraduate thesis, a major term paper, or other formal paper. Print your name in English on the upper left-hand corner of the first page.

3. Academic transcripts for undergraduate education

Academic transcripts must include the school's official seals or signatures. Please submit the transcripts for all the schools that you attended if they were transferred between schools. Moreover, be sure to submit standards for grade assessment. If a course title, a grade, or any other information in the certificates contains codes or abbreviations, an explanation should be provided.

4. Certificate of graduation (or prospective graduation) from an institute of higher education

The certificate of graduation (or prospective graduation) must include the school's official seal or signature. Submission of the photocopy of the certificate is not acceptable. Applicants who obtained a bachelor's degree from a school in a country other than Japan should also submit a certificate of degree conferment unless the degree conferment can be confirmed on academic transcripts.

Applicants who meet profile I (ii) should instead submit a certificate of degree conferment or a certificate of receipt of degree conferment application.

5. Documents showing other strengths related to academic works (e.g., command of the Japanese language)

If available, please submit these documents.

6. Document validating your nationality and residence status

This document may be, for example, a copy of your passport or a certificate issued by an embassy office in Japan. It should be prepared in English; accordingly, attach a translation if it is issued in any other language. If you reside in Japan, you must also submit a certified copy of your residence record.

7. English proficiency test scores or university certificate

All applicants whose native language is NOT English or who have not completed their bachelor's or master's degree in English as the medium of instruction must submit test scores from TOEFL, IELTS, or an equivalent proficiency test. Applicants with TOEFL or IELTS scores must have their official scores directly sent from the testing institution. Specifically, the Educational Testing Service (ETS) institutional code for SU is 7673. Note that in all cases, only the results of tests taken after December 1, 2019, will be considered valid for your application. (See “TOEFL/IELTS” on page 18).

Applicants with scores from an equivalent proficiency test must submit them together with their other application materials.

[Special Remarks on English Language Requirement Waivers]

- 1) The English language requirement will be waived if the applicant is a native English speaker or completed their bachelor's or master's degree in English as the medium of instruction in the United States, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Australia, New Zealand, or English-language universities in Canada, South Africa, India, the Philippines, Hong Kong, and Singapore.

- 2) Applicants who completed their bachelor's or master's degree in English as the medium of instruction in countries other than those listed in 1) above need not submit TOEFL or IELTS scores, but must instead provide an official letter from the university certifying that English was the language of instruction.

8. Two Applicant Recommendation Forms

You will need to submit Applicant Recommendation Forms from two persons qualified to judge your academic abilities. You must provide at least one reference from someone who can comment on your readiness for graduate studies—preferably a professor who taught you. These references should describe your academic work in detail. If you have completed significant independent research, such as a thesis, the admissions committee will normally expect one of these recommendations to be from your thesis supervisor. References must be submitted via the recommendation form. Subsequently, each recommendation form must be sealed in an envelope with the writer's seal or signature over the flap.

9. Application Fee Remittance Certificate

Please pay the application fee of 30,000 yen following the directions below.

(See how to pay application fee on pages 18-19)

When you have completed the payment procedures, print out the Proof of Payment form, and paste it onto the attachment sheet for the application fee certificate for submission with the application documents.

Scholarship

I Government Scholarship

1. Japan Student Services Organization (JASSO) Scholarship

http://www.jasso.go.jp/en/study_j/scholarships/index.html

(1) Research Program for the MEXT Honor Scholarship for Privately Financed International Students

The Japan Student Services Organization (JASSO) offers the Reservation Program for the MEXT Honors Scholarship for Privately Financed International Students (hereafter “Reservation Program for Honors Scholarship”) to students who attend a university or other institutions of higher education in Japan. In conjunction with this scholarship, JASSO sponsors a reservation program that sets aside scholarships for privately financed international students who enroll in a graduate school in Japan directly from overseas (i.e., applicants do not have to visit Japan before enrollment).

Privately financed international students who enroll in SU’s or the MEcon Program MEET these criteria, although a scholarship is not always guaranteed.

The Reservation Program for Honors Scholarship (graduate level) is paid monthly in the amount determined for that Japanese school year (April-March). This amount is subject to change each year. For reference, the monthly stipend for the 2021 school year was 48,000 yen.

After a scholarship has been reserved for an applicant, it is awarded for a certain period based on the time that the applicant enrolls in a Japanese graduate school. For students enrolled in the MEcon Program in October 2022, the duration of the scholarship is six months, from October 2022 to March 2023. Students need to compete for the MEXT (regular) Honors Scholarships or other scholarships for privately financed international students during the subsequent period.

All applications must be processed through SU. Direct applications by students will not be accepted. The application for the Reservation Program for Honors Scholarship must be made after matriculation.

[Important Points on Other Scholarships Related to the Reservation Program for Honors Scholarship]

The Reservation Program for Honors Scholarship cannot be awarded to students scheduled to receive one of the government or non-government/private scholarships.

(2) MEXT Honors Scholarship for Privately Financed International Students

Privately financed international students studying at SU are eligible to apply for the MEXT Honors Scholarship offered by JASSO. Applications for the scholarship should be made through SU. Please note that the JASSO scholarship is highly competitive.

2. Foreign Government Scholarships

Foreign government scholarships are available for those who are dispatched to Japan to study by the government of their home country. Please inquire about the relevant authority in your country for further details.

Foreign government scholarship recipients will receive priority in their housing applications for the International House.

II MEcon Program Scholarships

1. Economics Society Scholarship

The Economics Society of Saitama University offers up to two international students enrolled in the MEcon program a scholarship covering the amount of the MEcon program tuition fees (in effect, a tuition waiver) for the two years of the course with regard to continued excellent academic performance.

Note that you can apply for this scholarship only if you apply for a tuition fee exemption. Once you have paid your tuition, you cannot request an exemption.

2. Partial Scholarship

The Economics Society offers 200,000 yen to every first-year international student who matriculates in the MEcon program and moves to Japan from abroad, but only if they do not receive any support from any other scholarship covering their travel expenses.

III Non-Government and Private Scholarship

Every year, approximately 30 private organizations award scholarships to students. Although both the number of recipients and the amount paid are limited, we proactively advertise and recommend international students for these private scholarships.

Housing

International House

The International House is a quality housing complex for international students, researchers, faculty, and administrative staff of SU that aims to promote multicultural exchanges and mutual understanding. The commuting time to SU is five minutes on foot. The International House has furnished two rooms, family rooms, and single rooms with Internet connections.

Applications to stay in the International House are accepted in July (moving in October) and January (moving in April). Those wishing to move into the International House should forward their applications to the Office of International Affairs. Please understand that because the number of rooms is limited, an application does not guarantee a room in the facility. The maximum allowed period of residency is one year.

As of 2021, international students with Japanese government (Monbukagakusho: MEXT) or foreign government scholarships will be given priority in their housing applications for the International House.

For more information and an application form, please visit the following website:

Visa

If you are not a Japanese citizen or a permanent resident, you must hold a proper visa to stay in Japan. For those who need a student visa, the university will support your visa application by issuing a certificate of eligibility (COE) and other necessary documents.

To obtain student visas, applicants must demonstrate that they have the financial means to support themselves as students in Japan.
